

Native Bovine β-N-Acetylglucosaminidase

Cat. No. NATE-0779

Lot. No. (See product label)

Introduction

Description This enzyme, sometimes called β-N-acetylhexosaminidase, is reported to liberate terminal β-linked Nacetylglucosamine and N-acetylgalactosamine from a variety of substrates. The activity of β -N-actylglucosaminidase may be determined with the chromogenic substrate p-nitrophenyl-N-acetyl- β -D-glucosaminide. β -N-actylglucosaminidase hydrolyzes the terminal nonreducing N-acetyl-D-hexosamine residues. This enzyme contains two predominant isozymes, Hex A, a heterodimer, and Hex B, a homodimer. N-acetylglucosamine, acetamide, N-2-acetamido-2-deoyglucosylamine, N-acetylnojirimycin, and N-acetyldeoxynojirmycin are known inhibitors.

Applications Bovine kidney β -N-acetylglucosaminidase is a lysosomal enzyme used to hydrolyze N-acetyl- β -Dglucosaminides and N-acetyl- β -Dgalactosaminides. It is used in chemoenzymatic synthesis of oligosaccharides based on their effective transglycosylation of β -GlcNAc and β -GalNAcc. It may be a useful tool to study Alzheimer's Disease.
