Introduction

Description	Horsetail is a highly nutritious natural herb, an ancient herb that has existed since ancient times and is rich in nutrients and minerals such as vitamins a, b, and e, the minerals silicon, manganese, and potassium, to name a few. Especially rich in silicic acid and silicates. Horsetail is rich in silicic acid, which helps the body absorb calcium and nourishes the nails, skin, hair, bones and connective tissues throughout the body. Horsetail herb can also help eliminate excess oils from the skin and hair, resulting in healthier, thicker and more resilient hair growth. In addition, horsetail is used to stop bleeding wounds and promote healing.
