Introduction

Description	Chronic superficial gastritis is a condition characterized by superficial inflammation of the gastric mucosa. Its clinical symptoms are nonspecific and often include upper abdominal pain, bloating, belching, acid reflux, and heartburn. The exact causes of superficial gastritis are not fully understood, but Helicobacter pylori infection is widely considered to be one of the significant factors. This product can inhibit excessive gastric acid secretion, reduce the adhesion of Helicobacter pylori to gastric mucosal cells, relieve symptoms of bloating, alleviate inflammation, and help repair the gastric mucosa. It is effective in improving superficial gastritis as well as symptoms such as acid reflux and heartburn.
Applications	For health food, health care products, functional food, mother and baby food, baked snacks, etc.
